It would have been a non-event

Most people wouldn't bother to go around the corner to watch grown people put on silly costumes and make a bonfire. And that probably accounted for the fact that there weren't more people at the Ku Klux Klan "rally" on Rte. 5, in Rumford Pt., last Saturday. In fact, you could have counted the number of Klan sympathizers on your tingers. They were completely outnumbered by the media, the curious, and the

The angry carried hand-made signs and hot words, telling the Klansmen their racial and religious hatred is not wanted in Maine. Other concerned citizens met in Rumford, Portland, Auburn and Kennebunkport to re-affirm the American ideal that this is a country where everyone is welcome, and everyone works together.

While it was a non-event, the Klan "rally" reminded many that there are those who would destroy the basis of America in the name of racial and religious "purity."

Recycling coming to Bethel

Thanks to the Adult Activity Center, in Rumford, Bethel residents will now have something better to do with their newspapers, magazines and other paper waste than bury them in the landfill.

As reported last week, the Board of Selectmen gave permission to the Adult Activity Center to construct a shed near the entrance of the landfill in which papers can be deposited and stored. The papers will be picked up by the clients of the Center and sold to an insulation company. They will earn some money, and the Bethel landfill will last many more months as papers will no longer account for much of the waste buried there.

The director of the Center told The Citizen the recycling shed should be functioning within a month. If you want to aid a worthy social agency, and if you want to help prolong the life of the town's landfill, you will use the recycling shed for all your paper waste except corrugated paper. And tell your friends to do the same. bfw

The peninsula that separates Casco Bay and the mouth of the Kennebec River is now known as Phippsburg, a spread-out town of slightly more than 1,000 inhabitants. Here we are celebrating the 200th birthday of the American Constitution, but Maine's colonial heritage dates back another 180 years before 1787.

There we found a sign directing us to Fort Baldwin, although the name of the Popham fort was Fort St. George. Fort Baldwin, as we learned from a of our heritage that should be shared with as wide an audience as possible, not hidden away, It was especially unfortunate to not provide some understanding of the historical significance of the area because the town was being visited last weekend by a couple hundred journalists from all over the state. You see Mary and I were in Sebasco for the annual convention of the Maine Press Association, as were publishers, editors reporters and spouses from Kittery to Houlton, Hosting the Maine Press Association convention is a great opportunity for an area to make itself understood to the state's media. Next year, Bethel will be the host town, and I trust we'll do a better job of showing the visitors what our area is all about.

The convention will be held at The Bethel Inn, and the convention organizers will be in town in a month to begin working out the details. I was elected to the board of directors of the press association and will suggest that the local chamber of commerce be brought into the planning sessions. I would hope that the chamber can organize tours of the local forest industry and the local ski industry, as well as tours of Bethel's historic district. I would hope that when the assembled Journalists leave Bethel after next year's convention, they will have a good understanding of the area, which they will be able to impart to their readers. I'm sorry I can't tell you much more about Phippsburg. It is awfully pretty, and Popham Beach is broad and beautiful. Mary and I ran into Lynda Chandler and her mother, Dorothea Hitzrot, strolling on the beach, enjoying a coastal weekend.

I'm also sorry I can't report what awards The Citizen won in the Better Newspaper Contest-part of the convention. For the first time since we began entering the contest three years ago, the paper didn't win any awards. I hope this doesn't mean we didn't do our job properly this past year. If it does, I suspect we'll get letters from readers telling us

In truth, it is nice to win awards from members of the profession. But what the Klan members and supporters who were exercising their Constitutional rights of free assembly and free speech. Aside from the predictable posturing on both sides, there was little threat of actual violence, and even less evidence of any coherent dialogue. (Photo by Mike Daniels)

etters to the Editor

To the Editor: The below letter was sent to all SAD #17 board members and signed by 200 teachers [in SAD #17] to express their feelings about negotiations. Oxford Hills Teachers Association

Dear Board Member: We would like to take this opportunity to express our concern, confusion, and dismay about this year's teacher contract negotiations.

First, our concern is that you may feel or have been informed, that the teachers' association negotiating team, specifically, and the association, in gnereral, do not reflect the views of the majority of teachers in this district. On the contrary, the association, which is recognized by both the Maine Labor Relations Board and the SAD #17 Board of Directors, not only represents the vast majority of teachers in this district in terms of membership but also reflects the views of the vast majority of all our teachers, members and non-members alike.

Second, our confusion about these negotiations centers on the primary issue in dispute-the salary schedule. Although the association's proposal included a 5 percent index, the OHTA negotiating team indicated from the outset its willingness to consider any better salary structure the board might present. In response to this offer, the board's team withdrew its alternate pay plan from the table and presented instead two structures which were designed "on the spot." The salary increases in these plans were distributed arbitrarily and inequitably. The only justification the board has given us for these proposals is that it does not want to pay teachers "for get-ting one year older" and that there are a few teachers in this district who do not deserve a raise. This explanation is confusing since under the board's proposal teachers will still be paid "for getting a year older"—except in one instance—but they will not be paid for it at the same rate. In addition, the arbitrary nature of the salary schedule not only fails to insure that "undeserving" teachers-if there are any-will not receive a raise, it also provents some deserving teachers from receiving one.

The money to fund the salary schedule proposed by the association has already been budgeted by the board and approved by the voters of the district. The present schedule is both equitable and sensible. Why replace it with something that is neither?

Finally, we are dismayed by the reluctance of the board and superintendent to reward the efforts of teachers in this district in contrast to their willingness to praise this district's educational achievements to the public. As the superintendent stated in the opening paragraph of his welcoming letter to the staff this year, "Last year was a very successful year for this school district." The drama club placed first in regional competition, the music and math programs continued their dominance in the state, and the debate team is the state champion for the second year in a row The high school Odyssey of the Mind team placed fifth in the nation and the junior high OM team placed first. Last month we were informed by the Maine

Cohen criticizes proposed home energy assistance cuts for Maine

Senator Bill Cohen has expressed his "deep disappointment" with the Senate subcommittee decision to make a cut of over 30 percent in the funds allocated to Maine households under the government's Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP). The LIHEAP program is aimed at helping the poor, particularly the elderly, to pay for the costs of heating their homes. In 1987, Maine received $24.7 million under this program, enabling it to assist almost 60,000 households with the payment of energy bills.

In a letter to Senator John Stennis (D-Miss.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Cohen joined several of his colleagues in expressing his concern over the funding reduction for LIHEAP and urging its restoration to current levels. "Many members of low income households are now finding it impossible to meet the basic needs of existencefood, housing, and health care," Cohen said. 'To slash the already inadequate assistance they may get for their utility expense would be a severe blow."

Cohen noted the impact the funding reduction will have on Maine residents, pointing out that 19,000 fewer households will receive assistance and that "they will have to face the bitter cold winter without help."

"This program is crucial to Maine's or and elderly who are faced with ever increasing energy bills," Cohen said. "I will do all I can to see that this decision is reversed. It is important that as many Maine residents as possible obtain the assistance they need." With energy prices rising 20 percent over the past five years, he added, "the LIHEAP program becomes more essential every year for those in need."

The full Senate Appropriations Commiltee is expected to meet to review this issue this week.

Educational Assessment that our high school juniors scored 50 points above the state average in math, 60 points above the state average in writing, and 70 points above the state average in reading Dr. [Kenneth] Smith has credited SAD #17 teachers with educational successes like these. In a recent article published by the Oxford Hills Chamber of Commerce he explains, Our kids are average but we produce above average students. The ability of our teachers and their dedication to their work and their classes makes the difference.*

These achievements are not the results of a few teachers; they clearly and unmistakably reflect a district-wide effort. It is time to acknowledge the ability and dedication of the teachers in this district by negotiating a fair and equitable con-

New child safety belt law now in effect

The effective date of Maine's new child safety belt law was Tuesday, Sept. 29. It raises to 12 the age at which children must be secured in an auto safety belt or child auto safety seat any time they are passengers in a motor vehicle in Maine.

Albert L. Godfrey, Sr., Co-Chairman of the Maine Safety Commission, is confident that people of all ages will benefit from the law, "Now parents of all children up to 13 must be sure that these children are properly secured when they're riding, "he sald, " and educational effects are dure to impact not only that group but thousands of others as well in regard to safety belt effective-

"During the first six months police will be issuing only warning when the law is broken. After that a violation may result in a fine of $25-$50," Godfrey observed. "And I'm delighted to report that Commissioner John Atwood of the Maine Department of Public Safety has assured me that enforcement of the new law will be emphasized."

Superintendent's Newsletter

Dewaine B. Craig A year ago the Board of Directors of SAD #44 approved Policy B, Article #21, the Student Attendance Policy. This was an attempt to improve daily school attendance, which in turn will improve the student's regular classroom work and their final grade-course credit. Improving a student's daily attendance habits also teaches a student important attitude. Whenever any administrative body attempts to provide regulations affecting people, it is impossible to provide an effective policy without trial and error. Last year was the proverbial year or trial and error. In retrospect, the policy was and is founded on solid educational principle. The enrollment last summer in Telstar's Summer School dropped. This was related to the improved attendance on students in their daily classes.

The Student Attendance Policy worked quite well with approximately 97 percent of the students it dealt with. The remaining three percent of the attendance conflicts allowed the administration, board of directors, and a few students and parents an opportunity to find problem or conflict areas and also sllowed an opportunity for the policy to be "fine" tuned" for the future.

The Student Attendance Policy is still in effect in all SAD #44 schools this year. The policy has been slightly revised in an attempt to line tune procedures.

For your review and information, the revised SAD #44 Policy B, Article #21, Student Attendance Policy, is printed below. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact any SAD #44 administrator.

Student Attendance Policy

The Board of Directors of SAD #44 requires regular attendance at all classes and charges the administrative staff of the district with enforcement of this regulation in accordance with state law (Chapter 211, Title 20A MRSA). Attendance Rules

1. At the Middle School/High School level (Telster), when a student has accumulated more than five (5) absences in a quarter course, more than ten (10) absences in the semester course, or more than twenty (20) absences in a year course, that student may not receive credit for the course.

At the elementary school level, when a student had accumulated more than twenty (20) absences in a school year. that student may not receive credit for that year.

2. Absences which include the right for make-up are:

A. Personal illness.

B. Professional appointments that cannot be made outside of the regular school day.

C. Observance of recognized religious holidays when the observance is required during the school day. D. Emergency family situations.

E. A personal or educational absence submitted in writing to the principal and for which approval has been granted in advance tof the absence). All absences will be applied toward the attendance policy.

3. If a student arrives late to school or leaves with an early dismissal, the absence may apply to the attendance requirements.

4. Students who are excused from class at attend school sponsored activities or are inable to attend school due to school district transportation problems, will not have the absence applied to the attendance policy.

5. When a student accumulates half the absences described in #1 above, the CENTRAL MAINE POWER announced late last week its preferred corridor for siting a powerline to bring high-voltage DC power in from Canada. Of the 900 megawatts to be imported, CMP officials have said 600 will be used in Maine while the rest will be sold to utilities in other states. The proposal still needs state and federal approval. CMP is meanwhile trying to convince landowners to allow company engineers on their property to begin preliminary work on the line. Prejudice is never easy unless it can pass itself off for reason.

We all enjoyed the rain on the weekend of Sept. 19-20. We could use a lot more before snow falls around us as so many wells are dry,

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher attended the Anderson reunion at Bearbrook State Park, Allentown, N.H., on Sept. 19. The rain held off until we were well on the way home. There wasn't any ball game this year as several players were unable to come,

The North Paris Community Club was presented a gift of a piece of land for a parking lot directly across from the hall. It was the land where Mrs. Wilma Pierce and her late husband, Floreston S. Pierce, lived for many years. It was presented by H. Warren Abbott and accepted by the Community Club president, Joseph Vatcher. It may be too late this fall to do any work as the bulldozer man has much work to complete before winter sets in. The members are very grateful to Warren for this gift and it will save parking on both sides of the street.

Joseph Kalinowski has returned to Big Rock Farm after a short visit in Portland, Conn.

The Community Hall roof on one side is being shingled by Joe Vatcher. He has a capable 16 year old boy to help carry the shingles up the ladder for one hour after the school bus comes. He is Mark Jerris who recently moved to the Trask Road from Massachusetts. He goes to Ledgeview Memorial Home at 4 p.m. where he works in the kitchen and helps wherever he can. He and his family love it here in the country.

A mother bear and two cubs have been visiting the surrounding gardens at Joe Vatchers. Mama pulled up asparagus plants and ate the roots and also ate potatoes and beets but didn't touch the tomatoes.

The new house being built by Timmie Poland on the former Lillian Robbins' lot is going ahead very fast.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Brett have finally moved a trailer to their lot in Tuell Town. It has been eight months since thier other trailer has burned. Arnold Coffin is a surgical patient at

Stephens Memorial Hospital and he also has pneumonia. He hopes to be home Callers at the Lawrences have been: Richard Felt, Joe Vatcher, Robert

ELER

High Street West By VIVA WHITMAN

One of these nice cloudy days again, Had so much sunshine throughout the summer it makes it dreary to have it cloudy but we need more rain to fill the wells before winter sets in. The colors in the leaves are showing a great deal in places, now, and it is so pretty. Some of the maples are real colorful and it is a pleasure to see them as one rides along the road, no matter where you are going.

Russell has been bringing in squash for us to freeze and it is a job to peel it, cook it and then put it into containers for the freezer. But what good meals it helps to make for the winter months. As I have said before, our garden has produced a lot this year and we don't intend to waste any more than is absolutely necessary. I put up more pickles the other day and the rest of the cukes won't get used unless someone wants them. Any takers? We gave three bushel to Laura to take to a lady in Andover the other day but there are still lots left. Never saw cucumbers do any better than they have this year.

Hadn't been feeling too good when I wrote last week but felt better on Friday and went to town with Peggy and Russell and had a treatment on my back, which helped. Russell had treatments also to help him and we got the weekly groceries. I got extravagant and bought a Mega-Bucks ticket and glory be, I get a free ticket this week. First time it has happened for me so feel lucky. We were expecting Peggy's granddaughter and husband, Mr and Mrs. Fred Romano of Florida for dinner or supper as we country folks call it, so was busy getting good things for them to eat. They don't get the nice fresh vegetables from the garden like we have so they enjoyed the meal a great deal. We could tell by the way they ate and enjoyed themselves while eating. It is fun to get meals like that for someone and see them really enjoy it.

Did a little cooking on Saturday as the cookie jar was getting empty and put up more squash so have quite a few packages in the freezer already and lots more to go. Peggy went with Justine and Fred. her granddaughter and husband, for the day. They went to Freeport to L.L. Bean's and to Boothbay Harbor and I don't know where else but they got the lobster feed they were craving so badly.

I got word in the late afternoon that Toby Whitman had gotten hurt in the calf scramble at the fair so called to find out how bad. They didn't think it was very bad that night but had taken him to the hospital to have his arm x-rayed as it was swelling and seemed to be having trouble moving his fingers some. That was all I heard till the next day when I called and they didn't think it was too bad but had called him back to the hospital for more x-rays or something. I found out on Monday that he had broken his elbow but it wasn't bad enough to put it in a cast as long as he was careful. Hope it heals well for him as he has a long life ahead

Sunday was a busy day here as we were having some of the family in to meet Justine and Fred and having a polluck buffet lunch. There was certainly enough for all to have to eat as usual. This family never has a get-to-gether without lots of food around. Myrna and Bernard White of Auburn came, Laura Hutchins of East Andover, Loretta, Em. and Jim Merrill of West Bethel, Wynona. Michael, Courtney, and Kariann of Lewiston, Barbara and Bryce Yates of Sunday River, Bethel, Lorna Carter came with her mother Myrna, Fred and Justine Romano and Peggy, Russell and myself. I think I have named them all but Lawrence who came for lunch. Asked Grace but she had a sister visiting and so didn't come down even though invited them both. It was a good time had by all even if the rain did keep coming down and we had to be inside.

Monday was my day for going to see my doctor and getting a treatment. Russell picked tomatoes that were nearly ripe and brought in at least a pail full and a half of another. I think I will try making some tomatoe soup to can up and have to use this winter. Got tomatoes from last year and by the looks there will be more to put up this year. They are so large and so meaty and delicious. Can't get any to compare in the restaurants were you to eat there.

Have been doing a little sewing in tween other things and knitting, also. Decided on Tuesday that I would make a batch of pickles and call it enough for this year so got the cukes in and started peeling them. Peggy came down and helped cut them up as I peeled and took out the seeds.

Russell brought enough for a double batch so put up 24 pints of sweet cucumber pickles before the day was over. I have to admit they tasted good. Laura had to come to Norway to see a doctor so stopped in and got cukes for the lady in Andover to make pickles. Also was given some cauliflower and they

I had only wanted a small batch but were pretty heads. Yesterday, Wednesday, I had an appointment in Portland at the New England Rehabilitation Hospital to be evaluated to see if I could get in on a pain program. We left early as we intended stopping at our aunt's in Gray but didn't find her at home. I had taken her down three african violets as she loves them as I do. We went on to the Maine Mall and then to the hospital after lunch where I was examined and asked questions by a very nice doctor. He sounded hopeful so I am in hopes of getting into the program to help learn to cope with the intense pain I have. The month of October has been declared Literacy Awareness Month for SAD #44 by the local Literacy Task Force, which will sponsor a number of special events and activities throughout the

The Literacy Task force is a subcom mittee of the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education Advisory Council and has been meeting regularly since early summer. Members of the Task Force are Mary Isham, Don Sandstrom, Sylvia Wight, Nan Timberlake, Bob Anderson, Merrill Bittner, Cathy Newell, and Shirley Hodsdon.

In conjunction with Literacy Awareness Month, local libraries in Bethel and Andover have joined together to promote reading and library use. Task Force member Shirley Hodsdon, Betsy Raymond, of the Bethel Library, and Carol Littlehale, of the Andover Library, have an exciting month of events planned, in cluding a recognition ceremony, complete with helium balloons, for school children who completed the summer reading programs at the libraries.

On Oct. 2, a bookmark contest will be announced for students in all grades, and elementary school classes will schedule visits to the libraries. Special displays featuring children's books will be planned and contest winners will be announced.

The Bethel Library has secured a special loan collection of books for young teens, an age group where use of the library has traditionally tapered off. A Literacy in the Workplace Business Breakfast is in the planning stages to be held late in October, in coordination with the national Project Literacy US effort. SAD 44 will receive a special videotaped excerpt from a documentary on workplace literacy to use at the Don Sandstrom has designed placemats and posters for literacy awareness and adult student recruitment. They are being printed by Telstar Graphic Arts, and will be distributed to local restaurants and to school students at hot lunch later in the month. The design uses a rebus puzzle, under the slogan "Reading: As Basic as Bread and Butter", and is targeted both at the potential reading student who will receive the message regarding literacy services through the picture-writing, and at the reading public, who may find that the challenge of figuring out the message is similar to the daily problems encountered by the illiterate adult. Several members of the Literacy Task Force will be taking the Tutor Training class in West Paris during October and will be available at the end of the month to assist individual adult students, or to the completion of the tutor training, work in the Adult Learning Centers, or Anyone interested in participating in any at Telstar Middle and High School as activities of group may contact the Adult lutors. Nan Timberlake of the Task and Community Education office, Force is working on the use of tutors in 824-2780

The staff at the Bethel Area Health Center would like to remind members of the community that flu clinics will be held five different times this year.

The schedule is as follows: · Friday, Oct. 2, 1-3:00 p.m. at the Old School Annex, Bryant Pond.

Saturday Oct. 3, 9-11:00 a.m. at the

Bethel Area Health Center. Monday, Oct. 5, 5:30-7:00 p.m. at the Bethel Area Health Center. · Tuesday, Oct. 6, 12-2:00 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Meal Site, Methodist

HEALTH EDUCATION DEPT. AT STEPHENS MEMORIAL HOSPITAL CHANGES LOCATION

The Health Education Department of Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway, has moved. It will now be found in the Medical Arts Building (lower level) at 17 Winter Street, Norway.

All health education programs are now being held at the new location, with the exception of the monthly Alzheimer's Support Group, which will continue to meet in the SMH library. Health education is growing fast and SMH offers a variety pf programs for hospital, businesses and the community. Watch for upcoming programs. Please feel free to call SMH from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, at 743-5933 Ext. 471.

Task Force members Cathy Newell, Merrill Bittner, Mary Isham, Shirley Hodsdon, and Don Sandstrom, plus Mary Andrews of North Waterford and Larinda Meade of the Department of Educational and Cultural Services participated in Improvisational Theater Training under the direction of Marti Stevens of the Somerset County Basic Skills Program on Saturday, Sept. 19, at Telstar.

Following additional training, and much practice, the Bread and Butter Team will be available to present short sket ches regarding literacy to school and community groups. They are seeking additional members for the Improvisational Theater team. This effort is based on the highly successful Tri-State team which promotes awareness of literacy through improvisational theater. Training for local teams is funded by a Gannett Foundation grant awarded to the Department of Educational and Cultural Services.

The next meeting of the Literacy Task Force will be in late October, following

GEDs gain in popularity

The American Council on Education recently released information on the number of people taking the GED tests during 1986. According to Douglas R. Whitney, director of the Council's GED Testing Service, "The GED Testing program continues to offer a substantial number of people the opportunity to qualify for a high school equivalency

During 1986, 739,683 people-slightly up from 1985- took the GED tests in the U.S. and Canada. As a result of testing conducted at over 3,200 testing locations, 489,629 examinees earned scores that qualified them for an equivalency

Approximately 73 percent of the ex aminees who completed the test battery in 1986 scored well enough to pass the

According to Cathy Newell, Director of Adult and Community Education in SAD #44, 11 people took the GED tests in SAD #44 during 1986. All 11 passed the test. Mrs. Newell attributes the high rate of assing to the extensive use of the Practice Tests in the local program, and the opportunities for people intending to take the GED to participate in preparation

During 1986, 705,918 people, including 11,610 active duty military personnel, took the English edition of the GED battery; 31,195 took the Spanish edition; and 1,910 took the tests in French. Approximately 660 people used a special edition of the tests, either audiocassette, braille, or large print. The average age of the examinees was 26.5 years, and more than half indicated that they were planning to continue their education or training beyond high school. Since 1971, the GED testing program has enabled more than six million adults to obtain a high school credential. These credentials continue to be accepted by more than 90 percent of the colleges and universities, and by most employers to satisfy requirements for a secondary education credential. Annual ly, one in every seven high school diplomas in the United States issued based on results from the GED tests.

The GED tests have been revised, and Maine will begin using the new tests in January. The new tests will have a greater emphasis on writing and critical thinking skills, and SAD #44, as well as many local adult education programs have been revising their preparation process to reflect the new requirements. Pat Morey and Merrill Bittner have attended special training relating to the new writing skills requirements, and Morey will con duct a Writing Clinic as part of the Adult Learning Center at Telstar.

Anyone interested in information about the GED testing process should contact Merrill Bittner at SAL #11 Adult and Community Education, 824-2780. GED Practice testing and preparation is available during the day, on Tuesday mornings at the Bethel

I remember many things about them. September days, chipmunks scurry along the flat tops, their check pouches crammed with food for stocking their winter burrows. Wasps make paper nests in spaces between rocks. Many field mice build their nests there to shelter them from the cold of winter and away from foxes. I have noticed when on snowshoes, where a wall ends at a par-way, the laced tracks of many are in the snow.

Red squirrels race up trees carrying nuts and storing them deep in the crannies. Sometimes the wall for 20 feet is crammed with its hoards. One spring I saw the gray squirrel playing a rock-Xylophone, as it tripped along and loose rocks tipped as he leaped from one to another Foxes use the tops of them for roadways above the drifted snow. And. somewhere hidden among one of our rock walls is a bill-fold lost by my husband many years ago, while building a wire fence along the wall. Stone walls and their construction were a part of a farmer's life. Year by year these elongated monuments to our pioneers in New England have been shranking because of changes in agricultural methods and building activities.

So these memory-scenes of this evenmg have fled and the gale of rain and wind still howl out of the darkness. Blow, blow' Along the walls in Chipmunk Woods, they are safe beneath the rocks... probably with a nut in each check

I was so pleased to see my friends. Ed

'Futuring Conference' being planned for Oct. 30

A Citizens Community Conference will be held Friday, Oct. 30, at the Bethel Inn Conference Center for citizens from the towns of Bethel, Andover, Newry, Greenwood, Gilead, Woodstock and the townships of Albany and Mason. The all-day session will allow those attending to discuss concerns and ideas relating to such topics as development, land use, municipal services, education, economic development, and recreation.

The Citizens Community Conference is being planned by the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program and the Bethel/NTL Liaison Committee, with financial support from a number of area

The facilitator for the conference will be Eva Schindler-Rainmann, a nationally known consultant and long-time NTI, member. Ms. Schindler-Rainmann collaborated with the late Ron Lippitt in developing a process for future-planning that is widely used by major corporations, non-profit agencies and community groups

The local Citizens Community Conference grew out of a session conducted by Lippitt in August 1986, where 35 local citizens met to engage in a brief "futuring" session. That event was found to be useful by those who were able to attend, and, according to SAD #44 Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell, many suggestions were offered relating to planning a similar, but longer, event that would involve more people.

The Bethel/NTL Liaison Committee, which ran a highly successful Volunteerism Conference in 1986 with Eva Schindler-Rainmann as facilitator, met to respond to these suggestions and established a subcommittee to plan the event in cooperation with area towns and the local adult and community education

The goal of the Citizens Community Conference planners is to provide a large number of area citizens with the opportunity to participate in the future of their communities, which are experiencing rapid change. Individuals with an interest in the future of the area will have the opportunity to discuss and plan with others who share their interests. The Community Conference process guarantees concrete and positive outcomes by the end of the day. "The key to the success of this venture is recruitment of a large number of people who come from many segments of the com-

THOUGHTS FROM THE

Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, is endeavoring to bring frequently to you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

Many of our churches in more recent years, have more openly disclosed their policy of no dress code.

Some even have placed upon their outside sign "come as you are." Here is an open invitation to all; that even if their clothes or appearance are not such as perhaps most would prefer for the occasion. You are not only invited, but are urged, to come in.

One of our much loved hymns, is entitled, "Just As I Am." In this hymn, its writer, Charlotte Elliott, in its fifth verse, says: "Just as I am, thou wilt receive, wilt welcome, pardon, cleanse, relieve: Because they promise I believe, Oh Lamb of God I come!" I come. An open invitation given by Christ, is told in the Gospel according to Matthew 11:28. "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." There is no restriction here, ye that are weak and heavy laden in sin, come to Christ, and he will relieve you of the burden you are carrying.

The words Charlotte Elliott wrote, "Because thy promise I believe." What promise? In St. John 3:16, Christ says: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten son, that whosover believeth in him should not perish but have everlast-

Perhaps we all too often assume that the saints of the Bible, were men of very high moral character, more like an ideal than a way of life we could hope to follow.

Within the truth of this lies our greates ray of hope. There saints of old were not sinless men of the old world. Temptations, greed and lust had made its mark upon them also. Their hope and faith lie in the mercy and grace of God. They too, as much as you and I, must be made clean. David was no exception. After his reprimand, for his sin with Bathsheba, by the prophet Nathan, he made this plea and confession to God, as we find written in the fifty-first Psalm. In verse 7, David says, "Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be whiter than snow," David here, requests of God, to forgive him and relieve him of his sin," using the ceremonial method used to clease lepers for expression, and states his faith in God's power is clean him. In verse 10, David says, "create in me a clean heart; and renew a right spirit within me."

Set my ways and thoughts upon a clean range my life that I will follow thy ways.

Now Jesus Christ has become that cleansing power. Yes, come as you are, but come-come

Nature Conservancy presents awards at annual meeting

Awards recognizing outstanding achievement in the protection of Maine's natural environment were presented by the Maine Chapter of The Nature Conservancy at its annual meeting held Saturday, Sept. 26, in Bethel.

Frank Boren, national president of The Nature Conservancy, presented President's Public Service Awards, one of the group's highest honors, to two key participants in the Conservancy's recent acquisition of Big Reed Pond Preserve. a 3,800-acre forest wilderness in northern

Rob Gardiner, former director of the state Bureau of Public Lands, was cited for his unflagging efforts to arrange the three-way swap between the state, the Conservancy and the landowners. The swap resulted in the Conservancy's purchase of the Big Reed old-growth forest, and the state's acquisition of more than 1,500 acres of important recreational lands along the Allagash Wilderness Waterway.

The second public service award was given to the Pingree Heirs, former landowners of the Big Reed forest, and their representative, Bradford Wellman, president of Pingree Associates. Owners of the Big Reed land for more than a century, the Pingrees set aside the oldgrowth forest as a preserve in the 1950s. Realizing the great importance of the area, the largest old-growth forest left in New England, the asked the Conservancy to acquire the land and preserve it for the future.

The membership elected the following officers to the board of directors: chair, Sherry Huber (Falmouth); vice chairs, Peter Corcoran (Seal Harbor) and Carol Wishcamper (Freeport); treasurer, Tony Owens, M.D. (Cape Elizabeth); and secretary, Donald Mairs (Oakland).

More than 100 Conservancy members explored the Bethel region on field trips, including a hike through the Maine Chapter's first preserve, Step Falls in Newry, and a canoe trip on Virginia Lake, the largest undeveloped lake in the Maine State Police invites women to try out for trooper

A law enforcement orientation program for women interested in learning more about a career as a Maine State Trooper will be conducted Oct. 28-30, 1987 at the Maine Criminal Justice Academy in Waterville.

"The three-day program will provide a unique opportunity for interested women, ages 21 and older, to observe and take part in state police training-to include classroom and practical presentations of police methods and technology, said Colonel Andrew E Demers, Jr., chief of the Maine State Police.

Demers said the orientation program, for which there is no charge, includes meals and lodging at the academy. 'The Maine State Police offers a wide range of career avenues for women to purwue. This program is designed to help make women more aware of the opportunities available to them as Maine Troopers," Demers added.

Women interested in attending the program should contact the Department of Public Safety, Personnel Division, 36, Hospital Street, Station 42, Augusta, Maine 04333, or call 289-3498.

The State Police recently announced that they are accepting applications for trooper positions through Oct. 10. Their next training academy is scheduled to commence early next year. Men and women who are at least age 21 can contact the Personnel Division for further information and applications.

White Mountains. The Conservancy recently protected 1,800 acres surrounding the lake by acquiring the land, then transferring it to the White Mountain National Forest.

Supported by more than 10,000 members, the Maine Chapter of The Nature Conservancy is a private, nonprofit land conservation organization dedicated to preserving nature diversity by finding and protecting areas that contain the best examples of all components of the natural world. Since its founding in 1956, the Maine Chapter has protected more than 25,000 acres of Maine's finest natural land. The Chapter owns and manages a system of 71 nature preserves throughout the state.

For the next several weeks I will be reporting on the upcoming referendum questions. I will not be writing about the highly publicized issues. You will, no doubt, receive plenty of information on the Maine Yankee question and other controversial questions, I will be concentrating, instead, on those issues which little public information is available.

If sucessful on Nov. 3, a $5,000,000 bond issue would assist local public schools in purchasing school buses to help ease the problems faced by local schools in updating their aging school bus fleets. Currently, the Department of Educational and Cultural Services is authorized to approve up to $5 million per year for bus purchases. If passed, this bond issue would allow an additional $5 million for

Over the past three years, the requests for school bus approval funds has more than doubled monies available. From 1977 to 1986, the bus purchase fund has increased from $4-$5 million but requests have increased from $5.9-$10.2 million. Question #8 involves an issue very close to my heart. For years, I have been the advocate for school buses in the Maine Legislature. It is not a very exciting issue, but it is one that we simply cannot ignore. I have been successful in recent years in raising the amount local school districts may spend on school busses, but still our school busses are not up to par. This bond isssue offers a genuine opportunity to catch up. The question will read: Do You Favor a $5,000,000 Bond Issue for Acquisition School Buses for Maine Public
